INTEGRATION

WITH

BIOMETRIC DEVICES

You can record attendances in just the punch of a finger or with your face scanned or with your ID Card in the biometric enabled attendance machines. The software works in integration with such devices that reads or scan your finger or facial pattern. The scanning system provides identification of a person based on the acquisition and recognition of those unique patterns and ridges in a fingerprint or facial pattern. This pattern is then compressed and digitized so that it can be registered as a template of a person's biometric authentication data. The finger/face-vein pattern and the template can be authenticated by means of a pattern-matching technique. The device reads the finger/face vein pattern and the ID number is auto assigned by the software to each individual student.

The sAttend.com is a fully automated system where attendance is taken by the software in integration with the device. The software is very simple and easy to use that you can run the application simply by registering and assigning the admin and login Id.
